

Brybelly Holdings, Inc. Amazon Selling Policy

Amazon.com has proven problematic in 1.) managing our product distribution channels and MAP pricing, and 2.) ensuring a consistent customer experience with regard to product quality. An Amazon search for any of our brands returns duplicated, low-quality ASINs, and most unfamiliar retailers we secret shop ship out returned, damaged, or otherwise overhandled product.

In consideration of the above items, Brybelly Holdings, Inc. (Brybelly) does not allow new customers to sell our products on the Amazon marketplace. This includes FBA, Vendor, and FBM programs for both the USA and Canada. Customers may also not resell to third parties that intend to sell our products on Amazon.

Please read the following statement and sign below to be approved as a Brybelly merchant.

I agree to not sell any products purchased from Brybelly on Amazon either directly or indirectly through any of their selling programs. If I willfully neglect to abide by this agreement I agree to forfeit all Brybelly products, return them at my own cost, and agree to be held liable for any monetary or reputational damages incurred by Brybelly.

If I violate this agreement I understand Brybelly will terminate my account and immediately terminate any pending orders. I understand that Brybelly commonly performs test buys and reports unauthorized sellers to Amazon.com for copyright or trademark infringement. I will not hold Brybelly liable for any damage to my Amazon seller account as a result.
